A DECIDED SUCCESS.

The entertainment given at the Intermediate School on Saturday evening by the Remington Street School, proved a success financially and otherwise. A large and very appreciative audience gathered to hear and see what had been prepared, and not one had anything but the highest praise for all that was given. Unfortunately, children will be children, in spite of all, and at the last, as Mrs. Taylor stated, a great many who were slated as black men were red men, on account of the measles, and consequently were unable to be present; and owing to this complication, principally, the dumb-bell drill had to be forgotten entirely. Nevertheless, the dances were all exceptionally well given. The Oxen Dance caused the grown-ups to forget themselves and become as little children, and laugh long and loud.

The costumes of the "Rhinelanders" were very striking, and those taking part are to be complimented on the manner in which the dance was given. Another very good number was the dance of "Some Little Blackberries." The make-up of these young people would rival that of the wonderful coat of Jacob's. The Indian club drill was faultless in its execution and like the other numbers, was heartily enjoyed. The "Irish jig," which was to have been danced by Tom Lyons and Vivian Faust, two charming little people, had to be braved out alone by little Vivian, as poor Tom was in bed with the measles. But this little lady proved equal to the occasion, and dressed in a very striking costume of the "Emerald Isle," gave a splendid exhibition of this dance. The last dance on the program, the "Minuet," by four couples, was indeed beautiful. Dressed in full colonial costumes, the young ladies, with their powdered hair and dainty dresses, fans, etc., and the young men with their wigs, three-cornered hats, knee-breeches, slippers with their big buckles, and everything conforming with colonial days. They presented a most beautiful picture and did their part with grace and dignity. The piano solo by Ellen Moncton, a little Miss of about eleven years, was equal to that of a person many years older. This little lady accompanied all the dances of the evening, also. The singing of the different grades of the school was splendid and much credit is given Miss Foster, their musical instructor, and the little ones, also.

Mrs. Edmund S. Shank, who has always volunteered her services so willingly in all entertainments before, was with us on this occasion, and certainly was never heard to better advantage. She gave several beautiful selections, receiving prolonged applause, and responded to encores. The program was closed with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by the entire school and all costumed participants. Mrs. Taylor, principal of the school, made a neat little speech, thanking the trustees for the use of the Auditorium, also expressing her gratitude to Mrs. Shank for her kindness in helping to make the evening a success; and to Miss Douglas for her untiring efforts in training the children in their dances and drills.

Over seventy dollars was realized from the entertainment, making the teachers and all concerned feel as though they were well paid for their time and trouble. No pupil taking part in the entertainment was in a grade above the sixth, and are deserving of the praise given them.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARIES.

On Tuesday evening, March 18, at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Anderson, 407 Isabel street, Glendale, there was an anniversary occasion in remembrance of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Hoffman, eighteen years ago. Twenty-two persons were present, including the families of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman. Prof. Reissinger, wife and son of Alhambra, were present. Music numbers on the piano by Mr. George H. Anderson and Prof. Reissinger were much enjoyed by those present. An excellent supper was served at 8 p. m., and with greetings looking forward to the next anniversary the company bade good-night.

SENIOR BENEFIT.

A senior benefit will be held Friday evening, March 28th, at the high school auditorium. Admission will be 25 cents, and the following program will be rendered:

E. M. Bonnell and "The Watermelon Kids" in "Memories of the Sunny South." Charlotte Powers, reader. Margaret McKee, whistler. Slide from bone quartette—Ralph Warren, Richard Munroe, Percy McIntyre and Virgil Sewell—"Don't Ya Cry Ma Honey." This is a new creation in the musical world and alone worth the price of admission.

Don't forget. High School auditorium, Friday, March 28th, at 8 o'clock. Admission 25 cents.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Glendale has indeed a live Chamber of Commerce, and it is becoming more live every day. The president, A. B. Heacock, and the secretary, W. B. Kirk, assisted by the other officers and the executive committee, are proving themselves active organizers, and the citizen of Glendale who does not become a member of the Chamber of Commerce must be one who is "agin jinlin" any worthy organization.

At the regular monthly meeting, held in the J. O. O. F. Hall, Friday evening, the names of twenty new applicants were presented for membership. At a previous meeting Herman Nelson and W. R. Phelon had been appointed a committee to ascertain as to the best method of advertising the city. These gentlemen reported that they had inquired as to the cost of road boards which they recommended should be purchased and placed at proper intervals on the public highways leading out in all directions from the city. The board is galvanized iron, about 5x30 inches, and on it is an arrow pointing toward Glendale, the altitude of the city, and the words, "To Glendale." The committee was instructed to purchase the boards as recommended by them.

The members of the organization are heartily in favor of using all legitimate means to aid in making Glendale a greater city. The committee who had been appointed to devise ways and means to increase the membership reported favorably on the plan of appointing two leaders, each of whom would choose assistants, who would start a campaign of securing members. The side securing the greatest number of members in a month's time is to be entertained by the other side. M. P. Harrison and T. W. Watson were appointed by the chair as captains of the competing sides. The committee on entertainment announced that at the next monthly meeting the members will be treated to an entertainment and banquet. A very large attendance will be present at the next meeting, the date of which is Friday evening, April 11.

PEOPLE'S ORCHESTRA.

The directors of the People's Orchestra are expecting a large attendance at their twentieth concert, which is to be given next Sunday at the Auditorium Theater, as the piano solos always draw a large audience. The solo to be played next Sunday should prove especially pleasing. Homer Grunn, a well known composer and pianist, is to play one of his own compositions with orchestral accompaniment. The orchestration for the whole was made by Rudolph Kopp. Mr. Gates says of this composition: "It is written in march form, with the exception of the middle contrasting episode, which is a melody of lyric beauty and effectiveness. A return of the first march theme combined with the middle episode concludes the number."

The beautiful "Pierrot and Pierette" suite by Burgmüller is placed on the program by request. Mrs. Grace Carroll-Elliott, soloist and concert singer, will sing "Hosanna." In her rich contralto voice. The other numbers on the program are "Sicilian Vespers" by Verdi, and "Novelette" by Morton F. Mason.

CHARTER PROPOSITION DEFEATED.

The question of granting a new charter to govern the city of Glendale was defeated at an election held in the various voting precincts Tuesday, March 18, 1913. The adoption of a new charter had been before the citizens for consideration for several months. Public meetings had been held just prior to the election by those favoring the adoption of a charter and by those opposing the adoption. Tuesday's vote was as follows:

First Ward.

First Proposition—Shall the proposed charter be adopted—Yes, 140; No, 129.

Second Proposition—Shall the alternative proposition providing for the election of councilmen from the city at large be adopted? Yes, 73.

Third Proposition—Shall the alternative proposition providing for ward residence as a qualification for office of councilmen be adopted? Yes, 69.

Second Ward.

First Proposition—Yes, 74; No, 247.

Second Proposition—Yes, 65.

Third Proposition—Yes, 79.

Third Ward.

First Proposition—Yes, 92; No, 193.

Second Proposition—Yes, 57.

Third Proposition—Yes, 78.

Fourth Ward.

First Proposition—Yes, 136; No, 115.

Second Proposition—Yes, 67.

WE'LL HAVE A "SURE ENOUGH" RAILROAD SOON.

By Albert Marple.

Now that the charter election is over and Glendale still remains on the map, we may return to the new electric railway, which will soon open the eastern side of the city.

During the past week, while most of our people were dreaming, the railroad committee was assembled in the office of the headquarters, at the corner of Broadway and Glendale avenue. It will be very pleasing to the people of Glendale and especially to those residing on the side of town that will receive the greatest benefit, to see this line come in. But while the road is in progress of "coming" we must not lose sight of the fact that some party or parties are making it "come." This committee met every night this week and the prospects are that for several weeks to come their evenings will be taken up by this proposition.

At a recent meeting of the committee, R. A. Blackburn, the chairman of the body, appointed a finance committee consisting of F. H. Vesper, W. W. McElroy and H. C. Tupper, this committee to have charge of the receiving and expending of all money connected with the railroad. The treasurer of this committee is Mr. Vesper, president of the Bank of Glendale. At this meeting a right of way committee was appointed consisting of R. A. Blackburn, Spencer Robinson, H. C. Tupper, J. A. Epinger and P. A. C. Moore.

This right of way committee already reports much progress in the securing of the right of way for the line. All of the right of way has been secured from the northern terminus at Glendale avenue and Broadway south to a point where the proposed line crosses Fifth street on the Childs tract line. It is estimated by the committee that the right of way to this point will cost about $16,750. From Fifth street the right of way has been practically donated as far south as Moore avenue, and from Moore avenue south the land owners are meeting the committee more than half way. Through the 35-acre piece known as the Boynton property the right of way is being donated. Messrs. Erskine and Schofield are inclined to be very fair in their treatment of the committee. The owners of several other smaller pieces of property are yet to be seen, but the committee is not expecting to be held up by any of these. It can be stated that altogether the land owners are treating the members of the committee fairly white, although the inevitable few "grouches and knockers" make it impossible for the committee to glide along on flowery paths. It might be mentioned, however, that this right of way will be 40 feet in width within the city of Glendale, and 50 feet wide at the southern end of the line.

The Pacific Electric company has promised the railway committee that by the end of this week the complete maps of the proposed line will be placed by the company into the hands of the railroad committee. Immediately after receiving these plans, the finance committee will start arrangements leading to the securing of the money with which the right of way will be purchased. We are informed this week that the lots ranging within six, eight or ten blocks from the proposed right of way will be assessed on an average of about $20, graded, however, so that the owners of lots nearest the line will be asked to pay a larger percentage than those owning property at a greater distance from the line. These assessments, we are told, will range from $7.50 to $50.

Up to this time the railroad committee has advanced more than $1,000 out of their own pockets, this money being used for the purchase of options along the proposed route. In this work the committee was assisted by Dr. L. H. Hurtt and other citizens.

The rate of assessment of the Glendale business center has not yet been agreed upon, but this will be decided just as soon as the right of way has been secured.

The Glendale News recommends that the merchants of this town, no matter on which side of the city they are in business, treat the members of the committee cordially, at the same time handing them something in a substantial way. When it is realized that after all is told the merchants will be the ones who will receive the most benefit from this proposed line, on account of the growth of business they will experience when the new territory becomes thickly settled, it would seem reasonable to expect that these men will offer to help in any way possible, especially financially. This financial assistance should come from the business men on both the east and west sides of town. It seems nothing but natural and proper that the east side merchants should donate a larger percentage than do the west side business men, on account of the east side receiving the greater benefit, but at the same time it must be

A JAPANESE BOWER.

One of the last of the series of social affairs which have been held during the past two months in honor of Miss Pearl Cleo Goode, soon to be the bride of Mr. William Livingston, was the "Eats Shower" given on Saturday afternoon at the home of Miss Emily Elias of Tropicco avenue.

The parlors were literally transformed into a Japanese bower, walls, ceilings and furniture being hidden by boughs of sweet-scented cherry blossoms and branches of pepper. The darkened rooms were lighted by numerous Japanese lanterns, which glimmered through the branches. The effect was unusually beautiful and gave the impression that one was wandering through a fairy glade.

Clever games made a jolly afternoon. In a unique guessing game very appropriate to the occasion Miss Emma Pulliam won head prize. Numbered slips of paper were given each guest and all were bidden to find the corresponding number which would locate their future home.

An ardent search led to a tiny nest, filled with candy Easter eggs, carefully hidden in the cherry boughs, all except the honor guest, who searched long and carefully, eventually being rewarded by discovering a particularly large nest well filled with numerous packages, which contained a good supply of the little things which every larger should contain.

The hostess then presented Miss Goode with a dainty hand-painted book containing the two favorite recipes of each person present. After the serving of delicious and dainty refreshments a flashlight picture was taken of the merry group, and the pleasant afternoon was at an end.

GIRLS ENJOY JOLLY OUTING.

Monday morning, as the sun was getting a good start on its day's journey, a party of local girls, young ladies, if you please, started from Glendale for a St. Patrick's day outing. Being more favored than many others of this valley they were able to make the trip by auto, their destination being Griffith Park, known of old as Bee Rock. After tying their noble steeds to the nearest live oak tree, they proceeded to investigate the surrounding country. The calling of the "birds" proved too insistent, and they soon gathered around the main trunk of the tree, which the park is noted.

For a short spell the steaks frizzled and the potatoes chipped, while the scent of the boiling coffee served only to put an edge on the growing appetites. As it progressed the crowd grew more quiet, but happy.

The afternoon was passed real quietly, after which the party autoed to Burbank, where the evening meal was taken at the home of Miss Sence. To put a suitable conclusion to the day of merriment, the party enjoyed a turn at the Glendale moving picture theatre.

The members of the party were Misses Freda and Ruby Boribick, Mrs. E. K. Daniels, Lillian Eaton, Faith Sence, Blanche Davenport, Bertha Lund and May and Carrie Cornwell.

BIG HIGH SCHOOL DEBATE.

Come out Friday night at 8 o'clock and hear Glendale High School debate with Long Beach High. The subject is, "Resolved, That the Labor Unions are Beneficial to the Laboring Man." Mr. Lewis McGee and Miss Alma Turner of Glendale support the affirmative. Bring your friends, enjoy a good discussion and boost our school.

While the Glendale and Long Beach youngsters are fighting this matter out at the local high school, another team from the Glendale school will be contesting against a team from the Long Beach high, this second debate taking place in the auditorium of the Long Beach school. The team which will go to the beach town consists of Earl Farnsworth and John Dunn, prominent in this line of endeavor at the local school. The Glendale boys who will go to Long Beach will take the negative side of the question.

acknowledged that the west side grocery and hardware dealers will not refuse to supply their wares to residents of the east side, neither will the Brand boulevard real estate agent decline to sell a piece of property on the east side to newcomers to our city. Therefore, if we all will receive a portion of the benefit, each of us ought to be willing to bear our percentage of the cost of the improvement.

From this time let our slogan be, "Boost for the Electric Line," and while we are boosting let us put our hands in our pockets when the members of the financial committee make their social call. Let them see you smile, for along their rough and thankless path they find a lot of long faces.

We'll have a "sure enough" railroad soon.

MR. JOHN A. ROPER HONORED BY GLENDALE LODGE NO. 388 I. O. O. F.

Monday evening, March 17, 1913, will long be remembered by Mr. John A. Roper and by the members of Glendale Lodge I. O. O. F.

On this occasion the members of the order gathered in their hall on Broadway and paid a small tribute to Mr. Roper in the way of an evening of pleasure, with speeches, etc., and a good social time. There was a tempting lunch, also, that figured in no small way to pass away the time, and to help keep up the spirits of the gentlemen. The honored one has been an active member and a most earnest worker in the Odd Fellows' lodge for sixty years, being initiated March 17, 1853. He is a member of Horicon Lodge, No. 87, and of Badger Encampment, No. 6, and Britola Rebekah Lodge, No. 52, of Horicon, Wisconsin. Mr. Roper is the proud possessor of a large banner on which is pinned seventy-six badges of grand lodges, grand encampments and Rebekah assemblies. During the long years that he has been a member of the order he has helped institute twenty-one subordinate lodges, and has also assisted in dedicating seven Odd Fellows' halls. He very proudly states that he has an average attendance of one lodge each week for the sixty years to his credit—a record that very few members of the order can say they possess. During the three years that Mr. Roper has lived in Glendale he has been absent from lodge but two nights, these nights being so stormy that it was unwise for him to attempt to go out.

Eighty-three years will be the age of this honorable gentleman, if Providence wills it that he shall live until April 27, 1913.

Just one month after he joined the Odd Fellows, on the 17th of April, he was joined in wedlock, and has lived a very happy married life all these years. Mrs. Roper, his venerable wife, is his loving companion, and although well along in years, is young in spirit, and thoroughly enjoys the good times as well as the young folks.

Mr. Roper is the father-in-law of James F. McIntyre, a respected citizen of Glendale, formerly with the Bank of Glendale. His children are: Mrs. Belle McIntyre of Glendale, Mr. M. G. Roper of Tacoma, Washington, John A. Roper, Spokane, Washington, and Mrs. Daisy Roper of Glendale. It has always been the custom of both Mr. Roper and his wife to celebrate each anniversary, and this time, nothing preventing, there will be a special anniversary picnic at some place, to be named later, and to which they intend to invite (the entire lodge) Glendale Lodge as a whole, with their families, to help them celebrate. This will not interfere with another gathering of a more private nature for a number of their friends who would be unable to attend the "big doin's."

Our heartiest congratulations and good wishes to the couple, and may they both live to enjoy many more anniversaries!

MRS. SARAH L. MARTIN DIES.

Mrs. Sarah L. Martin, who for the past few years has made her home with her son Charles, at 1130 West Tenth street, Tropicco, died at this home at noon Monday, her age being 88 years at the time of death. Mrs. Martin was the mother of a large family, four of her sons still living. On January 5th Mrs. Martin fell and fractured one of the bones of her thigh. Since that time she had been helpless and had been waited upon most devotedly by her son, with whom she was staying. She retained her faculties to a remarkable degree and was quite active up to the time of her accident. She leaves a brother in Vermont who is 103 years of age, who still preaches. He is a preacher in the Methodist Episcopal church, and on his 102nd birthday anniversary he delivered a sermon to the people of his town. The body of Mrs. Martin was laid to rest in the Rosedale cemetery.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

The Tuesday Afternoon club of Glendale will have a Philanthropic Day at the next regular meeting, the afternoon of the 25th. Mrs. L. W. Sinclair is chairman of the committee and will provide good speakers and music to charm the ear, and tea will be served for good cheer. A silver offering for the benefit of the work will be gratefully received, for much has been done for the sick and needy through the efforts of the Philanthropic Committee.

WORK ON ROAD PROGRESSING.

The work on the extension of the Glendale-Eagle Rock railway is progressing rapidly. The trolley poles are set and the trolley wires are strung to the new townsite of Montrose. The laying of the track is well under way and the line will be completed by April 5.

IN LAVENDER AND WHITE.

A number of the friends of Miss Frances Humphrey gathered in her honor at home of Miss Gertrude Wilson of Louise street, when Miss Wilson and Miss Genevieve Gannaway were hostesses of a charming miscellaneous shower, daintily carried out in lavender and white. Myriads of violets and ferns formed pretty floral decorations.

During the course of the evening's amusements, the bride-to-be was blind-folded for several seconds. When eventually the blind-fold was removed she found herself in the center of a large hoop, twisted with lavender ribbon, from which numerous packages, all wrapped in white and lavender, were hanging, which contained many pieces of handsome china, cut-glass, needlework and several pieces of aluminum kitchenware.

A light supper was served, entirely carried out in lavender and white. Individual favors were bouquets of Princess violets.

The evening was one of the happiest and prettiest of the occasions being given in Miss Humphrey's honor.

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL SERVICE.

Funeral services for the late D. H. Imler, held at his late home, "Palm Villa," on Park avenue, Tropicco, Friday afternoon, were very impressive and very largely attended, the funeral being the largest held in this valley for years. Rev. Will A. Knighton of Los Angeles, who performed the marriage service for Mr. and Mrs. Imler in 1897, officiated, assisted by Rev. Hatch of Tropicco and Morris Schick. Mrs. Hellyer of Glendale, accompanied by Mrs. Alice Mitchell, furnished beautiful music. The pall bearers were Dan Campbell, Wesley Bullis, F. H. Vesper, Dr. Bryant, Prof. Moyses, John A. Logan. The honorary pall bearers were N. C. Burch, C. C. West, Robert Taylor, Dr. S. Pollock, J. L. Fishback, A. W. Collins, O. P. Snyder, C. G. Johnson, A. E. Wright, C. F. Parker, C. E. Rich and E. G. Goode.

At the grave the services were in charge of the Masons. Francis Booth sang very feelingly, "Face to Face." Mr. Imler was a man universally loved and respected, widely traveled, of unusual business ability and, especially very popular. His sudden and untimely death was the cause of much sorrow. He was laid to rest in beautiful Forest Lawn cemetery.

P. M. O. ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

On Wednesday Chapter L met at the beautiful canyon home of Mrs. John Pirtle. Decorations of pansies and iris were most artistic.

The business session was called at 10:30 by the vice-president, Mrs. R. E. Chase.

A delicious luncheon was served buffet style at noon.

The afternoon was devoted to election of officers for the coming year. Mrs. Elizabeth Brown was elected president; Mrs. John Humberger, vice-president; Mrs. E. U. Emery, recording secretary; Mrs. A. W. Tower, corresponding secretary; Mrs. R. E. Chase, treasurer; Miss Ruth Byram, chaplain; Mrs. Ed Lee, guard; Mrs. William Goss was appointed journalist.

The next meeting of Chapter L will be an evening meeting at the home of Mrs. George Moyses, on Fifth street.

The afternoon sewing party, which was recently postponed, will be held on Wednesday, April 9th, at the home of Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, on Brand boulevard.

UNEARTH SKELETON.

While grading for the extension of the Glendale-Eagle Rock railway on Wednesday morning, workmen unearthed a human skeleton, apparently that of an Indian, in Verdugo canyon. W. B. Barkley, superintendent of construction, will place the skull on exhibition in Glendale, the hole made by the bullet from which the death of the man likely resulted is visible in the skull.

HEARS OF NEPHEW'S DEATH.

S. Berman, the Brand boulevard tailor, was informed this week of the death of his nephew, David Stone, the end taking place at the state hospital at Patten. The remains were brought to this place, where they were taken in charge by the Jewel City Undertaking company, interment being made at the Jewish cemetery in Los Angeles.

TROPICO GIRL WEDS.

Miss Iris Louise Brown, daughter of Mrs. O. L. Kilbourn of 1128 West Tenth street, was married last Wednesday evening to Frank L. Dietzel, late of Union City, Tenn. Mr. Dietzel left immediately after the ceremony for Phoenix, Arizona. They expect to locate at Mesa, Ariz., where the groom, who is an expert jeweler and repairer, will embark in business.

CHAPTER III.

Parting of the Ways.

A strange feeling of excitement, something like exhilaration, was in the air at Charleston that morning of April 12, Henry Clay's birthday, as more than one of the Ellingham household had remarked. In a way that cannon signal roaring against Sumter had come as a relief to the general tension not only at the South Carolina storm center, but everywhere, north and south. It was the decisive beginning of what all knew to be inevitable war.

When Colonel Haverill reflected upon the calamity pending over the country his own personal griefs and annoyances sank into insignificance. It was the same with the elderly southerners, and the personal greetings and commingings of that day were marked by grave courtesy and kindness.

From earliest daybreak every available place on the harbor side was thronged by ladies and gentlemen, old and young, white folk and black, viewing the spectacle of the bombardment. Troops came pouring into Charleston, but were held in reserve, the forces already manning the score of batteries now in action against Sumter being more than ample. Civilians of various descriptions were arriving from all directions on horseback, afoot and in every species of antiquated or improvised conveyance. Far out seaward could be descried the vessels sent by the Federal government for the relief of the beleaguered fortress, and it was rumored that they would still make an attempt to throw reinforcements into the place.

Meanwhile Major Anderson, within the fort, had withstood his fire until long after daylight, when parapets were knocked down and breaches began to appear in the masonry of the walls where the thirteen inch shells from the mortars struck, and smoke and flames from burning sheds told of havoc wrought within.

When he was "good and ready," as they said, Anderson opened fire with three barbette guns and stirred up the Confederate batteries on Mount Pleasant and Cummings point like a hornets' nest. Then he brought into action the two tiers looking toward Fort Moultrie with such effect that several of the latter's guns were eventually silenced.

The firing continued all day and intermittently through the night. Sumter had no ammunition to waste. One of her magazines had been exploded by the Confederate shells. The latter were persistently directed in an attempt to carry away the colors, but all day these defiantly waved, and when the morning of the 13th dawned the flag was still there. At last, about noon of that second day, a successful shot was aimed and the flag, which had been hanging by a single halyard, fell. One of the enlisted men was quick to raise it again, replacing the shattered flagstaff with a spar.

In that brief interval Major Anderson's fire having of necessity ceased, the Charlestonians concluded that the fort had surrendered. Senator Wigfall, in the name of General Beauregard, put forth in a boat and went to offer Anderson the most favorable terms of capitulation—evacuation with permission to salute the flag and to march out with the honors of war, with their arms and private baggage. Under these conditions his brave defense having won him the best possible terms and knowing that further resistance would mean useless sacrifice of life, Major Anderson without humiliation hoisted the white flag over Sumter and entered into negotiations for the surrender of the fortress.

President Lincoln had called for 75,000 troops to suppress the rebellious combination of the southland and to "cause the laws to be duly executed."

"Lieutenant West," said Colonel Haverill, handing his young officer a stamped paper, with full military formality, "I have secured the necessary passports north—here is yours. I am ordered direct to Washington and shall start with Mrs. Haverill at once. You will report to Captain Lyon of the Second regiment in St. Louis."

With what a different manner of paternal tenderness did the colonel lay his hand on the shoulder of Lieutenant Robert Ellingham, as if he hated to speak the words that meant a long farewell.

Bob felt less restraint in going over the same ground again when the time of leaving came for him and Kerchival.

"Our state is to be the chief battle ground, according to present predictions," he said, with the weight of fifty years suddenly added to his stature as a Virginian. "But every loyal son of Virginia will follow her flag. It is our religion."

"That may be all right for you, Bob—I am not blaming you," responded Kerchival. "But my state is New York. If New York had gone back on the old flag—your father's and mine—well, New York might go to the devil. That's my religion."

They walked out, Robert and Madeline, along the battery wall by the sea, in silence, as if by mutual rendezvous.

"This is the last we shall be together for the present, anyway, Miss Madeline," poor Bob began.

"I'm afraid so," murmured Madeline.

"But we shall meet again—some time," he went on desperately; "that is, if we both live."

"If we both live!" repeated Madeline, in an awestricken tone. "Oh, Robert. You mean if you live, I suppose. So you are going, too, into this dreadful war, if it comes?"

"Yes, Madeline, I must. It is fate—yours and mine together—isn't it, dearest girl? You don't deny it, and that gives me courage. You know what duty means. And you know what love means, too, don't you? Madeline, I do love you. I shall always love you, come what may. There, fate has granted me this much—allowed me to tell you how I love you—and nothing can take this moment away from us at least, thank God! And I have the strongest kind of faith in me now that our story isn't going to be cut short here. It may be interrupted. We've got to be tried by fire, maybe, but I can stand it if—You will think of me, won't you, Madeline?"

"I shall keep watch upon fate." For the rest of their time together their silences were more eloquent than their words.

Lieutenant Kerchival West passed through one more dramatic scene before quitting Charleston.

In an obscure tavern by the water front he found Frank Haverill, a sincere, young desperado, whose bold, dissipated look had something strangely attractive about it and whose gentlemanly speech and manner belied a certain affectation of hardness and bravado.

All this latter was swept away by the sudden, violent wave of emotion that visibly rushed over his whole being when West delivered Mrs. Haverill's message and handed him the locket containing the portrait miniature.

With an oath on his lips and tears running down his hardened face he cried out hoarsely:

"I've been a fool, an ungrateful dog, and I've deserved jail and worse. And I'll stand the gaff and not blame any one but myself either. But, by heaven, I'm glad now that you settled with that Thornton before I got to him. And I came down here to Charleston to seek him as a friend! Now, listen, Lieutenant West, and I want you to tell this to my father and to my dearest mother, for she is that—here he kissed the miniature fervently—"tell them that I deserve the worst that can happen to me, but that I didn't desert my wife."

"Poor girl! She only allowed that story to go out in order to throw them off the track and help me to escape as I did. Now she will know that the colonel and Mrs. Haverill know the truth, and that will comfort her more than the money they are sending her, God bless them! And it would comfort me, too, if anything could, but nothing can, except one thing, and that is fight and plenty of it. I want to fight my way back to self respect, to honor, and show those who have stuck by me that I'm worth saving after all. No matter what happens, thank God I've still got freedom to fight!"

"Do you mean that you'll enlist?" asked West.

"Yes—yes, lieutenant. I can't get to Washington quick enough."

"In the Federal army, of course?"

"Surely—in the fight for the Union."

"Bully for you, Frank!" cried the officer, impulsively grasping the boy's hand. "That will be splendid news for the colonel."

The somber scowl overspread Frank Haverill's face again. He rose to his feet and said earnestly:

"No, Lieutenant West. I charge you, upon honor, not to tell my father—not to tell any one—but to keep this secret between ourselves. It will be time enough for them to know when I have proved myself a man again. Lieutenant, I am going to Washington to enlist. But that is all that will be known about me for the present, perhaps forever. Even if you hear of me in the days to come it won't be under the name of Frank Haverill."

"I am going to start all over again under a new name, which won't have a spot of dishonor on it, and Uncle Sam and Father Abraham Lincoln will have a brand new recruit, born today. Do you understand, Lieutenant? That sweet lady, heaven's own angel—mother to me, has stooped down and grabbed me out of hell, and she did so or my father will never set eyes on his son again!"

When Colonel Haverill arrived in Washington, which at that period had not yet outgrown the aspect of a shiftless, overgrown Virginia town, he found it transformed into a vast, chaotic military camp. Every incoming train from Baltimore or from the west brought its regiment of raw recruits, who were driven like cattle to the barracks and drill grounds on the Potomac flats, near the end of the Long bridge and within sight of the steeples and roofs of Alexandria; where on a clear day the southern flag could be seen from the very windows of the White House, floating defiantly.

While Washington was getting ready to send the Army of the Potomac to invade Virginia, Robert Ellingham, reported to General Lee in Richmond, 115 miles to the southward, and found the new Confederate capital likewise seething with activity.

Lee was exercising all his energy, sagacity, skill and experience in the tour de force of sending an equipped army to Johnston and Beauregard in the field at the threatened points. From one of these points, the great valley of Virginia lying between the Blue Ridge and Shenandoah mountains, he had called Colonel Thomas Jonathan Jackson, an eccentric Presbyterian professor at the Virginia Military Institute in Lexington, and who in the first brief month since the breaking out of the war had developed aggressive qualities calculated to attract the attention of authorities at Richmond.

Lieutenant Ellingham, promoted to captain, naturally gravitated to the new brigade of Jackson, who was now elevated to the rank of brigadier general of volunteers. The regiments of his brigade were composed of the very flower and pride not only of the valley, but of the whole commonwealth of Virginia, and even before Jackson's troops took the field they had already begun to receive the impress of the iron hand of their leader.

Their first destination was Manassas Junction, the point of union of the railroad coming into Virginia from Washington with a branch road leading into the Shenandoah valley. General Lee had pointed out that this strategic point would in all probability be the first battlefield in the move to check the Federal advance toward Richmond, and he now concentrated all available forces there.

On a small stream called Bull Run, some thirty miles southwest of Washington, Beauregard awaited the arrival of McDowell. The banks of this stream are abrupt and densely wooded, but it is fordable in numerous places, and at that time was crossed on the Centerville and Warrenton turnpike road, below Sudley church, by a stone bridge.

It was a bright, sultry Sunday morning of mid-July that the two armies of brothers—disrupted members of a family republic that had held together for three generations—first emerged in serried battle lines six miles long from the mysterious Virginia forests on either side of Bull Run and rushed forward to fight breast to breast for victory.

The Federal plan of operations, credited to the still masterful Lieutenant General Winfield Scott, started with the planting of an entire division of fully 15,000 men in the rear at Centerville, to protect the communications. Colonel Haverill's regiment, to his intense chagrin, was here helplessly detained. Another division, in which General Buckthorn's brigade was included, marched ahead to make the opening demonstration at the stone bridge, while two others crossed at the Sudley and other fords, to concentrate on the southern bank of the stream and flank Beauregard's left.

This seemed an admirably clear and simple plan at 8 o'clock in the morning. Before noon it was an obliterated memory, and the wide arid plateau over which the battle spread like a fire in the brushwood swarmed with confused masses of northern and southern troops reeling to and fro, alternately taking and losing and retaking the same positions half a dozen times over, all lines indistinguishable in dense and lurid clouds of smoke, through which artillery guns and caissons dashed madly, while the thunder of cannon and the sustained crash of musketry reverberated in diabolical concert from the low lying hills around, and near and far arose, mingled with the human-like neighing of horses and the hoarse shouts, yells, cheers and commands, the horrible shrieks and groans of wounded and dying.

Before his horse was killed and himself knocked senseless by the explosion of a shell Heartsease saw General Buckthorn fall in the grand charge that drove back the South Carolina legions of Hampton and Bee. He also became aware of another brigade near the enemy's center that did not give way, but stood its ground stubbornly and then turned aggressor. It flashed over Heartsease's mind at the time that one or two more commands like this one would make Beauregard hard to whip, not knowing that this was the unique First brigade of the Army of the Shenandoah, under Jackson.

Bob Ellington, galloping along the little wooded crest on the other side of the stone bridge, knew all about this brigade. He saw General Bee check and rally his scattered forces by pointing with his sword and shouting:

"Look at Jackson—there standing like a stone wall!"

Jackson's brigade on the artillery swept plateau of Manassas was playing the part of the Imperial guard of Napoleon at Austerlitz, but without the prestige or the inspiration of apparent success. At a late hour of the afternoon neither side knew whether it had lost or won. In point of fact, one had about the same right to be routed as the other. Beauregard was tearing about the field, at every portion of the lines, his dark creole face burning with animation as he shouted encouragement to his grimy, savage looking troops, who responded with the blood-curdling "rebel yell" of the southern swamp rangers.

CHAPTER IV.

The Virginians.

General Joe Johnston—the ranking Confederate officer, but who had intrusted the immediate command to Beauregard on account of the latter's familiarity with the country—was able to keep from his headquarters something like a general outlook over the field and received intelligence just as a final attack was preparing that "a Federal army" had come up and was advancing upon his rear. This should have been the Union reserves from Centerville, but it was not. It was General Kirby Smith of the Army of the Shenandoah arriving with 1,700 fresh infantry. The whole southern line now advanced to the charge, and the combined attack upon the Federal flank and front was decisive enough to turn the tide of battle from uncertainty to sudden panic. The lines of blue wavered and broke, fell back from the plateau, across the Warrenton pike and on toward the Bull Run fords. The repulse became a rout, the rout grew into an appalling avalanche of defeat.

The Federal advance on the southern side of Bull Run had seen a regiment moving toward them, but were told it was a New York regiment which had been expected for support, and the artillerymen withheld their fire. Suddenly there came a fearful explosion of musketry, which in an instant changed the scene into one of hideous carnage. Death-stricken men with dripping wounds were clinging to caissons, which frantic horses dragged pell mell through the infantry ranks and over the prostrate bodies of the fallen. A caisson blew up and three horses galloped off with the burning wreck, dragging a fourth horse, which was dead.

Cannoneers lay limp across their guns, with rammers and sponges and lanyards still in their hands. Whole batteries were annihilated in a moment, and organization command was wiped out. Those who could run, walk, limp, or even crawl, waited no longer, but dropped everything and got away from there.

On his hill at Manassas, after the final victorious charge, General Jackson had come nearer to the actual truth of possibility than he or any other Confederate then knew when he cried out exultantly:

"Give me 10,000 men and I will be in Washington tonight!"

The dawn of Monday came, but the sun did not shine. In the hot, sullen, drizzling morning the defeated troops poured into Washington over the Long bridge.

Some good citizens—but they were not in the majority—put out steaming wash kettles filled with coffee or soup for the forlorn boys. Among these good Samaritans was Jenny Buckthorn, surrounded by a staff of colored servants. Her father, severely wounded and captured by the enemy, had been recognized by his former comrade, General Beauregard, and as a personal courtesy had been exchanged for a wounded Confederate officer and allowed to proceed to Washington in an ambulance, attended by Colonel Haverill.

"Where is Heartsease?" was the first question Jenny asked her father after having ascertained that that stern parent was not dead.

"Don't ask me," muttered the old warrior. "This is no time for piques and dancing parties."

Since a Maine girl has proved that she can throw a baseball 185 feet all the would-be funny men of the land are looking decidedly serious and are wondering if they really must remove the woman-can't-throw joke of the stock list.

RECOGNIZING HOME WORK.

A teacher in the West has apparently found a way to keep school children up to a certain amount of practical home work, not only to help the parents, but, even more important, to advance their own growth in character. The Pictorial Review says: "There is a school in Oregon which has developed a plan for securing home service, so excellent that the only wonder is that it should be left to already over-burdened school teachers to develop it instead of the parents themselves. In this school the children have reports on home work, such as washing dishes, feeding chickens and various household tasks. Daily the parent credits so many minutes of home work, and at the end of the week signs the report. The scholars are graded exactly as in other studies, and the highest receive some award, usually the honor of having their names on a special roll."

RETROSPECT AND AMERICAN WOMEN.

Perhaps nothing emphasizes the progress of these days more clearly than comparison of what was written about men and things ten years ago with the things found in newspapers today, says the Christian Science Monitor. In an old magazine one comes across some chat, this time not so much about men as about women, which declares how far we have come in the intervening decade. The American wife was then described by Gertrude Atherton as far behind her husband in intellectual acquirements and interest in things that are worth while. She is adjured to wake up to affairs in the world that are worthy of her attention. Neither her absorption in the details of housekeeping nor her social fervor nor even her endeavor to "make intellect" by belonging to clubs seemed to Miss Atherton sufficient excuse for her being.

But how the ten years have changed all that! Women's clubs no longer go in for bookishness. Literature is studied chiefly as it throws light upon the problems of every day, and is thus capable of practical application. Hardly a woman anywhere is to be found nowadays who has not at least begun to think of some of the important human problems before the general public. In the last campaign women were stirred to interest in public questions as never before, perhaps, since the time of Lincoln, and such subjects as the high cost of living, trusts and the tariff, child labor laws, suffrage (for or against), schools, clean streets, beautiful cities, organized charity work, social settlements, and so on are topics of talk in almost every gathering of women.

MINIMUM WAGE FOR WOMEN.

In a statement on the "white slave" traffic, Acting Governor O'Hara of Illinois asserts that thousands of women in Illinois are receiving and trying to live on a wage of $5 a week or less, with practically no hope of advance.

How near conditions in any part of California may come to those thus depicted in Illinois we do not know, but it ought to be clear, whether in Illinois, in California or anywhere, that if they do exist it is the business of the state to do something about it, and that in any event it is the business of the state to make it impossible for them to exist.

The only doubt, in California, of the passage of a minimum wage law for women, or at least of a bill providing for the preliminary investigations, preparatory to such a law, is the fact that the labor unions of California, through their central body, have declared formally against it. Obviously, if there are any members of the Legislature under the influence of the extreme capitalist viewpoint, they will be against the minimum wage. That viewpoint wants women workers cheap. With organized labor declaring on the same side, and with many members of the Legislature very close to union labor, the bill may really be jeopardized by this curious combination of hostile influences.

Organized labor has no objection to the law fixing minimum hours for women. In fact, it was the support of that law possible. But, for some unexplained reason, the leaders of organized labor have declared against the correlative proposal of a minimum wage law. If women are overworked, these union leaders are willing the law should step in and protect them. But if women are underpaid, they are not willing to have the law interfere.

It is not proposed in California to jump at any rash and unconsidered legislation on the subject. To be sure, the labor unions rejoiced when just this was done on the question of hours instead of wages. The hours were cut from an unlimited maximum to eight at one fell swoop. No other state has ever gone so far, and if California had made the break first to nine hours, with a little leeway one day in the week if used some other day, even that would have been hailed as a very radical step in advance. But the unions were rejoiced to see the whole step taken at one leap, and they are now advocating removing all the exceptions to the law, including some which it is very important to the fruit industry to have retained. Even the most rapid course, on the question of limiting the hours of women by law, seems none too fast to satisfy the unions. But even the most conservative course in the direction of putting by law a bottom limit on their wages meets the implacable organized objection of the unions.

It is worse than illogical. It is monstrous. Do the California labor unions dare face the world and say that such conditions as are described by Governor O'Hara shall remain unrelieved, merely because the relief may have to come from some other source than the unions? Are the unions to say, "the misery, the temptation and the debauchery which we have not succeeded in relieving, we will permit no one else to relieve?"

It is a dog-in-the-manger policy unworthy of the unions. They ought to withdraw it. And, whether they withdraw it or not, the Legislature ought to disregard it.—C. H. R. in California Outlook.

HOME CONVENIENCES.

The question of conveniences for the woman on the farm is very ably discussed by an exchange as follows:

Very many of our farm exchanges, especially in the home department, are fond of drawing comparisons between the man and the woman on the farm. It is broadly stated that if the man wants a new machine to lighten his labor he gets it, while the poor woman is forced to get along in the old-time manner.

At first glance this appears to be a selfish action on the part of the man on the farm, but really it is as it should be. The average man does not consider, in the purchase of new machinery, the lessening of his own labors. If this were the only argument that could be used in the advocacy of improved machinery, we question whether it would be of much use to introduce and manufacture it.

Instinctively the man is the breadwinner. The farm is a factory, and the output is used in keeping the home running. Sometimes the end is forgotten in the pursuit of the means, but with every right-minded man the home is the end of all effort. Now convince the farmer that by the use of improved machinery he can do more work, increase his income by being enabled to cover more land with the same or even greater effort, and he will purchase. Not for a moment does he consider his own labor, the great object is to do more.

Machinery for use in the house is solely for the purpose of lessening labor, of making life easier; there is no added income to be looked for in it, no increase in the profits of the farm, and so its purchase is too often put off until it can be better afforded, and as there are in every growing business, constantly increasing demands, the poor farm wife is obliged to get along with inconveniences, waiting for the day when the farm will be fully equipped with all necessary appliances.

Of course, as the home is the end of all effort, it should not be neglected, even while the farm is being built up, but too often we get into a rut and forget our earlier objects in the pursuit of what should be the means to the end, and so the home is neglected. At the same time no wise business man or farmer will neglect the business upon which all depends, and turn everything into the home. If that were done there would soon be an end of the business and the home which is dependent upon it.

It is too true, that too many farm wives are forced to get along without proper comforts and home conveniences, but it will usually be found to result from carelessness and oversight, that the farmer in working for an object overlooks the daily needs of the home. It is not selfishness on his part, as too many assume, but the turning of his attention in the wrong direction, and in such cases it is policy on the part of the woman of the house to call his attention to the fact that all effort centers in the home and that he should do all he can for it while his business is expanding, not, however, sacrificing the latter.

CREAM CAULIFLOWER WITH HAM.

One head of cauliflower, 3 well-beaten eggs, 2 cups of white sauce, 1/2 cup of finely chopped cooked ham.

Trim the cauliflower and boil it in boiling salted water until it is tender, then drain and rub the cauliflower through a sieve. Add the eggs and one cupful of the white sauce to the cauliflower and pour the mixture into a buttered mold. Bake until firm. Turn out on a hot, flat dish, cover with the remainder of the sauce and sprinkle over with the ham.

NATURE NOTE.

"Don't put all of your eggs in one basket." But the truly wise hen, it is guessed, will, day after day, in the old-fashioned way, put all of her eggs in one nest.

The teacher of few words can easily maintain order in the school room.

BAKED BEETS.

Wash the beets and bake until tender, which will take longer than to boil. Do not test with fork, but let them be in the oven while other cooking is going on. When pressed hard with the finger and thumb the skin will separate. Peel, slice thin and heat for a few minutes in equal parts of butter and vinegar.

UNCOOKED FUDGE.

Take one-half cup of rich sweet milk, stir in powdered sugar to make quite stiff, with one square of unsweetened chocolate and stir in with one cup of chopped walnuts, flavor with vanilla, press in buttered pans, cut in squares. Can be eaten as soon as made.—Los Angeles Express.

IMITATION BUCKWHEAT CAKES.

In the evening mix four cups of whole wheat flour, one cup of flour and one-half cup of corn meal, with one-half yeast cake, dissolved in a little cool water. Add enough milk and water, using half of each to make a thick batter. Cover and let rise over night. In the morning stir in one level teaspoon of salt, one-half level teaspoon of soda and salt, one-half level teaspoon of soda and enough milk to make the batter of the right consistency to fry well. Cook on a hot greased griddle and serve with syrup.

CHOCOLATE CAKE WITH CARAMEL FILLING.

Two squares of chocolate, one-half cup of milk, yolk of one egg. Cook together in a double boiler. Turn into mixing bowl and add one cup of sugar creamed with one level teaspoon of butter, one-half cup of milk, level teaspoon soda in milk, one teaspoon vanilla, 1 1/2 cups of flour. Bake in layers or loaf.

Caramel Filling—One and one-half cups sugar, one-half cup milk, butter size small egg, one teaspoon vanilla. Boil 10 or 12 minutes.

CLAMS WITH CREAM.

Chop 50 small clams, not too fine, and season with pepper and salt. Put into a stewpan butter the size of an egg, and when it bubbles sprinkle in a teaspoonful of flour, which cook a few minutes; stir gradually into it the clam liquor, then the clams, which stew about two or three minutes; then add a cup of boiling cream, and serve immediately.

BAKED RHUBARB.

Wash the stalks and cut into inch lengths. Use a sharp knife and do the work quickly. Arrange in layers in a bakedish and stew generously with sugar. When the dish is filled in this order, squeeze the juice from half an orange over all. Add not a drop of water. Cover closely and bake. This is nice, eaten cold or hot. With whole wheat bread and butter, it is a satisfying breakfast.

CORNMEAL GEMS.

Beat one egg very light, add one and a quarter cups of sweet milk, one cupful of cornmeal, one tablespoonful of sugar, a teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of melted shortening and one cupful of wheat flour with which a heaping teaspoonful of baking powder has been sifted twice. Bake in gem pans. This quantity makes just twelve gems.

ECONOMICAL CAKE.

One cup granulated sugar, one cup water (hot or cold), one cup raisins (seedless), one-third cup lard. Boil these together three minutes. Let cool, then add: One teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-third teaspoon mace, one-third teaspoon cloves, two cups of flour (measure before sifting). Bake in slow oven. This cake requires no butter, milk nor eggs.

SOUTHERN BEAN SOUP.

One pint of hominy beans, 2 quarts of water, 1 onion, 1 tablespoonful of butter, 1 potato, 1 ham bone, seasoning of salt and pepper. Soak the beans in the water over night, then add the onion, sliced and fried in the butter, the ham bone, the potato, parboiled and cut into small pieces, and seasoning of salt and pepper. Allow to simmer for five hours, skimming occasionally. Rub through a colander. Serve with croutons.

COCOANUT INDIAN PUDDING.

One tablespoonful of chopped coconut, 2 tablespoonfuls of Indian meal, 1 tablespoonful of instantaneously tapoca, 1/2 cupful of molasses, 1/4 cupful of sugar, 1 tablespoonful of butter, 1 quart of milk, pinch of salt.

Mix all the ingredients together, then pour them into a buttered, fire-proof dish and bake slowly for two hours. Serve hot with milk. If pearl tapoca is used it must be soaked over night.

VEGETABLE SAUSAGE.

Boil three carrots, two parsnips, four onions and one pint of peas, each separately. When cooked chop fine and add a tiny bit of garlic, a pinch of finely minced parsley, salt and pepper to taste, one-half pound of bread crumbs, and two well beaten eggs. Let the vegetables stand till cool, then roll into sausages, dip in egg and fry in very hot fat.

COCOA WHIP.

Two teaspoons gelatin, two cups boiling water, three tablespoons cocoa, one-half cup sugar, one-quarter teaspoon salt. Soak the gelatin in four teaspoons cold water ten minutes, then dissolve in one cup boiling water. Mix the cocoa, sugar and salt in one cup boiling water, mix all well together and beat until light and almost firm; then pour into mold or bowl which has been rinsed with cold water.

HOMemade PREPARED MUSTARD.

Break one egg into a bowl, add one scant tablespoon flour, two tablespoons ground mustard, two tablespoons sugar, butter the size of an egg, one teaspoon salt, and a dash of cayenne pepper. Beat all well together, add one and one-half cups vinegar and cook in a granite saucepan until it boils up. Don't let it lump or scorch while cooking. This will keep some time.

STUFFED POTATOES.

Bake potatoes of equal size. When done and while still hot cut off a small piece from the end of each potato, scoop out the inside, mash, and season with salt, pepper, butter, and a little cream or milk. Fill the potato with the mixture, return to the oven and bake to a delicate brown.

WITHOUT FREEZER.

The lack of a freezer need not prevent your enjoying ice-cream occasionally, writes a contributor to Farm and Fireside. With two vessels, one slightly smaller than the other, cream can be frozen with only a little more time and trouble than with a freezer. I use two buckets, one smaller than the other by two inches all around. Put prepared cream in small bucket (one-half gallon size is preferable), and stand in large bucket. Pack around with ice and salt, alternating as you would for a real freezer. Let stand and cool for 10 minutes after which whirl by the handle until freezing begins; cut from sides of bucket as fast as it freezes to the thickness of a quarter of an inch. After freezing begins, it requires from 15 to 20 minutes to finish.

UNKNEADED BREAD.

The Los Angeles Express publishes the following interesting interview with Mrs. J. H. Seaman of Central avenue, Tropic, on the subject of unknneaded bread. Doubtless many readers of this page failed to notice the article and we reproduce it here, as we think it of much interest to housekeepers:

"It makes me laugh to see women making a fuss about unknneaded bread. I've been making it for 15 years. An old friend in Chicago taught me when I was first married and she had been making it for most of her life. I suppose she learned the recipe from someone away back. There's no trick in making it."

Mrs. J. H. Seaman of Central avenue, Tropic, was slicing a loaf of delicious bread as she talked with amusement at the idea of unknneaded bread being a novelty. "Instead of filling up on pie, cake and cookies, my children have always eaten this bread. Used with sweet butter, they like it better than pastry, and it is certainly more nourishing."

Mrs. Seaman went on to say that the bread recipe she has been using for 15 years is superior to the white, unknneaded bread now being exploited as a novelty, because hers calls for graham flour.

"Mr. Seaman and the children enjoy this bread so much I do not want to be selfish and keep it for my own family. A child could make it. With proper warmth, three hours are sufficient from the time the bread is mixed till it is ready to remove from the oven. Here is the recipe:

Take six cups of graham flour and two cups of white flour, about five cups of lukewarm water, two cakes of compressed yeast, dissolved in another half cup of lukewarm water; a tablespoonful of salt, and half a teaspoonful of sugar and two tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Mix all together with a large spoon in a mixing bowl. It does not matter much how you get them all in. Cover it with a cloth and a paper. Keep it warm, but not warm enough to cook it.

The dough ought to stand till it is pretty nearly doubled in size, then spoon it out into the breadpans. It won't pour. It is better to have your pans warmed and floured. Have your oven hot for about 20 minutes, then turn the gas down. The bread ought to bake an hour, to an hour and a quarter, and a cool oven at the end is needed to prevent the outside from burning. If you want to make it richer, you can add chopped raisins or walnuts.

"This bread is untouched by human hands and a child could make it. Women who object to the labor of kneading and who enjoy graham bread ought to try it. We find it one of the most nourishing things we eat."

Mrs. Seaman looks remarkably young to have been a matron for 15 years. But she does not lay any claims to the elixir of youth being found in the bread. She simply laughs at the idea of unknneaded bread being a novelty, and tells how she has made it all her married life.

BESNARD RED IN THE MISSION PLAY.

"It's truly Besnard red," said a distinguished artist, on seeing the wonderful light effect upon the costumes of the soldiers and Indians in the ensemble of the fiesta scene in the second act of the Mission play, San Gabriel.

Besnard red is famous throughout Europe, and especially in Paris, where the fashionable modiste has made it extremely popular as the coloring for the latest fabrics. Its first recognition, however, came through a channel not commercial.

Albert Besnard, a painter to the French government, went to India about two years ago, where he made seventy-five sketches in that land of brilliant colors. There he caught with his inspired brush a warm red, strong, brilliant and luminous. The first exhibition in Paris of his paintings on India set the world of fine arts afire with talk of the brilliant, warm red coloring, and with that wonderful facility for naming new things for which the French are famed, the new red was immediately named Besnard red.

This mechanical color effect in the fiesta scene of the Mission play which has resulted in producing the Besnard red was attained through the joint efforts of Mr. Benjamin Horning, the dramatic director, and Mr. Harry R. Haskin, the assistant stage-manager. Mr. Haskin selected the costumes with the proper shade of red for the foundation and Mr. Horning directed the lighting, the two producing the Besnard red.

Local artists not acquainted with the Besnard red should see it visualized upon the stage of the Mission playhouse at San Gabriel. The other lighting effects should also interest them. The distinguished English actress, Lily Langtry, said that the ocean-wave effect seen through the ruined Mission arches in the third act was the most realistic she had ever seen.

A quaint fan from Seville, Spain, was presented to Miss Lucrétia del Valle, the leading woman of the Mission play, at a matinee recently during the intermission between the second and third acts. The donor was Mrs. J. J. Tobin, wife of Col. Tobin, commissioner of immigration, and who is of the Estudillo family of Alameda county.

The fan has been in the Estudillo family for seventy years and came to them from relatives in Seville, Spain. The design in colors depicts the fashions prevalent in the early forges at Seville with the shawl and the fan invariably articles of the toilet of the Spanish women.

A comparison of the manner in which the Seville ladies draped the shawl and the way Miss del Valle drapes the beautiful Oriental shawl in the third act of the Mission play reveals the fact that it is identical with the representations upon the fan.

Is this merely a curious coincidence, or is this art in draping the shawl an inherited gift from Miss del Valle's paternal ancestors?

Miss del Valle will wear this fan in her role of the Senora Josefa Yorba, a Spanish California lady who laments the decay of the Mission establishments in California.

Two altar boys—twins, in fact—who serve at the mass in the old San Gabriel Mission every Sunday, play the same parts upon the stage that they do in real life. They are Manuel and Jose Ramirez. By permission of the father-superior of the San Gabriel Mission the boys take the part of acolytes in the Mission play and lead the procession to mass, which is the opening scene of the third act. Mr. Horning, dramatic director, says they are faithful little workers and rarely need to be corrected.

ORANGE SPONGE CAKE.

Five eggs, one cup sugar, one cup flour, pinch salt. Break eggs into bowl, add the sugar and beat 15 minutes; sift the flour and add, folding it very lightly (do not beat after adding the flour). Line pan with paper, pour in the mixture and bake in oven 15 minutes, if in sheet, or 30 minutes for loaf. Ice with orange icing. Take the juice of one orange and one-half lemon and mix until smooth with sugar, enough to spread.

GREAT HYMNS.

Our education is too gross and utilitarian. We have made too much of the intellect and too little of the feelings. No parent has done his full duty to his child until he has given the child as a precious memory forever the great patriotic hymns of home and native land, the folk-lore hymns of his race, the great classic hymns that sing of man's need and the pathos of God's love, the sublimity of immortality.—N. D. Hillis.

APPRECIATE ENTERPRISE.

The merchants and citizens of Glendale are appreciating the enterprise shown by the News' manager on account of his installing so much new machinery. The plant is being equipped so completely that it will hereafter not be necessary to go outside of the town to get machine composition, wire stitching, and folding done. The new standard Mergenthaler Linotype machine is now installed and is in operation. It is with pleasure we learn that lovers of the Glendale spirit of enterprise heartily favor the improvements we are making.

GLENDALE'S PROSPERITY.

Glendale has the name of being the most prosperous city in California. Property sells readily and at good prices. Many business and residence buildings are being erected. Citizens of Glendale speak a good word for their town—they are boosters, not only in name but in deed. They have the sensible habit of trading with their home merchants, and in this way Glendale is being built up on a solid basis. There is no false boom about the growth of Glendale,—the city's growth is founded upon business principles, and the sensible way the people have chosen to do their trading in their home town is adding to the valuation of the city property, and it is also giving encouragement to the local dealers to carry more complete lines of merchandise. Local pride and local patronage go hand-in-hand.

It is said that more interest than ever before will be shown in the world's aviation meets of this year. It will be considered a lofty honor to receive the highest award.

VERIFIES STATEMENT.

The statement made in the last issue of the News concerning the promptness of subscribers in making payment of subscriptions has been verified the past week by many of the good, staunch people having their dates extended in advance one year. The man or woman who follows in the line of strict business principles is the one who is most apt to give attention to the expiration of a subscription. No fault to find with the exact business habits of the Glendale News subscribers.

IMPORTANT TO ADVERTISERS.

Copy for display advertising should be in the hands of the printer at this office not later than Wednesday at 9 o'clock a. m., and earlier if possible. All news articles should be in the hands of the compositor not later than Wednesday evening and earlier if possible.

WHERE DO WE STAND?

Editor Glendale News:

Where do we stand? To those who are classed as reactionaries and call themselves stand-patters and oppose any so-called progressive legislation and try to scare the timid by crying paternalism we would like to whisper to them that the world is moving forward and not backward; so you had better try to get used to it. You may think the medicine is bitter, but the after effects will more than compensate for the imaginary pain of taking it. But take it you must. As one of the kings of finance said at the investigation of the money trust, "We have only begun to concentrate wealth." So we common people say to you, "We have only begun to get ready to do things to the capitalistic system." We are just waking up to a realization of its blighting and brutalizing injustice and we are coming to see that it is the sum of all infamies and the soil from which springs about us all the evils that afflict society. For pointing out some of these evils we are accused of stirring up class hatred. Is it nothing to you that the poor man is sent over the road every day for terms of from ten to twenty years for small thefts, in many cases forced by hunger, while the trust magnates and big thieves in general, who loot banks and rob the poor by the wholesale, either go free or receive the lightest sentence and are never allowed to serve out their time? But why expect anything else? An evil tree must of necessity bring forth evil fruit. Away back in feudal times this system was founded on robbery, on the principle that might makes right and to the victor belongs the spoils. We hypocritically call ourselves a Christian nation, yet how low our standard traits when compared with the standard which the founder of Christianity sets. No man has a moral right to subjugate or live off the labor of his fellow man, yet we make it legally right to do both! Now, where are you going to stand? Are you going to line up with the thieves who are pauperizing and plundering the masses and heaping to themselves wealth which they never earned, do not need and cannot use; with the oppressed or the oppressor, with the exploiting class who are not only appropriating the wealth that others create, but are robbing the children unborn of their birthright. Are you a professed Christian, and can you do less than oppose with all the strength of your being the right of Capitalism that is filling the land with the horrors of crime and poverty in an ever-increasing ratio. Daily and hourly the great unrest increases. We are living in a time of transition and the present system is passing. As chattel slavery passed away, so capitalism and wage slavery will pass away, for God and man has decreed it.

R. GILHAUSEN.

Some houses are painted only on the side that presents itself to the view of the public, and likewise some people smile, only when in public places.

When you write a letter, tell how well the town is looking. It is as important as the stamp.

It is better to help the town accomplish some good thing than to point out a dozen poor ones.

WE'RE GROWING.

To say that Glendale is growing rapidly would be to rehearse an old story that residents of our little city have been truthfully telling for the past six or seven years; but to say that Glendale is growing faster now than she has done during her incorporated life, which means during her entire past, would be expressing a truth which few of our own people take time to consider. This fact is true, however, and when we are waiting back to our Eastern friends we can, in all faith, tell them that our beautiful little city is growing by "leaps and bounds."

We might mention, also, that the present growth is permanent; the homes and business structures that are going up are being built with the intention of having them last for many years. In some sections of Southern California it seems, from the class of homes that are being erected and from the quality of business houses that are going up, that those building them expect to stay there but a short time, or just so long as they are compelled to remain in that locality. Not so in Glendale. The men who are building here are satisfied with this section as a home place and are erecting homes with the intention of remaining in "our little burg" until they are forced to leave.

There seems to be no section of the city that is being favored by this building activity. The northern part is sharing equally with the southern portion, while the residents of the eastern locality are keeping pace with their brothers on the west end. And while there is some rivalry among those living in the different sections, this spirit is entirely friendly, every booster considering first the good of the city at large, and afterward his individual section.

A resident who was in Glendale several years ago, making his home here at that time, afterward being compelled to move elsewhere, landed in town the other day for the purpose of reviving old recollections and seeing the old homes and scenes. After passing some time walking up and down our streets, that old-timer again boarded the car for Los Angeles. His face carried a downcast expression and he sat as far down in his seat as he could. His trip to our city had been in vain, as far as the purpose of his trip was concerned. The old scenes were gone and the homes of long ago had long since ceased to exist. They had given place to modern homes and the wheels of progress and prosperity. So it will be seven or ten years from this time. If we were to leave Glendale now and return a few years hence, the present scenes will have passed away and the new pictures will be those of more modern times and will be evidences of greater prosperity and growth.

We are on the "grow," so let no mossback get in the road.

CIRCULATE THE NEWS.

The only method the publisher of the Glendale News intends to use to aid in building up a strong subscription list and thus make a paper valuable for advertisers, is to publish a paper that the citizens of Glendale and vicinity will want. The management is already meeting with great encouragement, and it is early yet to expect people to understand that the News will every week be brim full of the things that loyal citizens of one of the most rapidly growing cities in California will wish to read.

There is no fungus growth about the News,—no cheap subscriptions, no continued free copies of the paper,—only a good, well-printed, clean edited paper; that is all, and the only attraction. Names are being added to the list rapidly,—some subscriptions are being phoned to us and others are being received by letter. We want to give attention to reading matter now,—the news of the city and its people, so do not insist too much about contracting for advertising space unless you feel sure he venture will pay you. In the meantime we will take care of all advertising furnished by those who believe in the benefits derived from advertising. The wide-awake, merchant always knows what is best for his interests and he will not be slow to notice that the Glendale News management is spending money and time to give him a good advertising medium. The real hustling business man is not asleep.

7,000 POPULATION.

The News editor has been informed by reliable citizens of Glendale that the city's population is 7,000 and perhaps 7,500. So many people are moving into this rapidly growing city that tomorrow's population is considerably larger than today's. In a month from now the population may be 200 greater than at this writing. However, the writer will take steps in the near future to ascertain so nearly as possible the exact population of the city.

NOTICE CALLING FOR BIDS.

Sealed proposals will be received by the City Clerk of Glendale at his office until 7:30 p. m. of Monday, March 31, 1913, for furnishing to the City of Glendale—

2500 lbs. of double braid No. 8 and 1000 lbs. triple braid No. 8 weatherproof copper wire to conform to specifications for said wire on file in the office of the City Clerk.

The City reserves the right to reject any and all bids.
By order of the Board of Trustees of Glendale, Cal.
Dated at the office of the City Clerk this 18th day of March, 1913.
G. B. WOODBERRY,
City Clerk of the City of Glendale.

If you don't see this town's advantages, how do you expect a stranger to do so?

EASTER.

The Two Watchers.

By Samuel Parker.

"Hither come, ye soldier brave,
Take in charge this new made grave;
Watch it well with sleepless eyes,
Leave no margin for surprise.
His rash followers maintain,
This dead man 'will rise again.'"

Sitting in the gloom alone,
His mute partner yonder stone;
Somber silence, darkness, gloom
Environ that borrowed tomb,
Tomb wherein the Savior lay,
While the night hours crept away.

Soldier, are ye not aware
Other watcher, too, is there?
There, although unseen of you,
There for eyes of faith to view?
Strong the one in bright array,
See! the stone is rolled away.

Dare you say, "His followers crept
In and stole him while I slept?"
Death the only sure reward
If a soldier sleeps on guard.
Nay, he triumphed o'er his foes,
"Hallelujah, Christ arose!"

Raise aloud the glorious song;
Young and old its strains prolong—
He by rising chased the gloom
From the cold and cheerless tomb.
How with hope the future glows!
"Hallelujah, Christ arose!"

Wireless "Easter" the world o'er,
Easter songs on every shore,
Mountain, valley, hill and plain
Echo with the joyous strain:
Tell it till the whole world knows,
"Hallelujah, Christ arose!"

Weeping Marys of the years,
Cease your mourning, dry your tears;
Listen to the words of cheer:
"He is risen, He is not here."
In the fact your souls repose,
"Hallelujah, Christ arose!"

VALLEY VIEW.

Mr. Jordan of Moline, Ill., who recently bought the house at 1464 W. Seventh, expects his wife here this week.

Mrs. Fannie Millions of 1533 Vine is still very ill and her recovery is doubtful.

Mrs. G. W. Case of 1325 Lomita recently sold her place to E. B. Case of Tropico and he sold it last week to a man from Paso Robles. Mrs. Case has bought a lot on West Sixth, near Pacific, and has lumber on the ground to build a "shack" to live in.

Norman Badger has prepared a fine tennis court on the lot just west of Mark Van Loven's, 1537 West Sixth, and proposes to invite his friends to a little relaxation occasionally this summer.

An apartment house is being erected at about 1430 West Sixth.

Mrs. E. M. Cooke of 1608 West Fifth street is able to be up again after a serious attack of blood poisoning in her right hand from a scratch.

O. M. Lane and wife of 1522 West Fifth have a new baby.

Mrs. R. P. Burlingham and sons Harvey and Teddy, who lived at 1570 West Sixth, have gone back to their former home in Seattle, Wash.

The social at the West Glendale M. E. church Monday night was quite well attended.

The new M. E. parsonage is progressing rapidly and will be ready for occupancy about April 1, it is thought.

Mrs. Dora Bundy was called to Bakersfield last week by the serious illness of her son's wife.

W. C. T. U.

The annual "all-day" meeting for the election of officers and reports of year's work of the W. C. T. U. will be held March 21, 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Box lunch brought by each one, at the home of Miss Goff, 312 Belmont street. Take Eagle Rock car; third house, and be sure you come. Mrs. Lucy S. Blanchard, State President, will be present. Bring your dues for next year, and so keep up the work. MRS. GAYLORD, President.

PROHIBITION SOCIAL.

The Prohibition Society of Glendale will hold a social, Thursday evening, March 27, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Evans at Piedmont Park, near First and Adams. Large attendance and a good social time will be the features of the meeting.

There will be a ball game Sunday at Verdugo Park, the contesting teams to be the Verdugo Park club vs. the Elks of Los Angeles. It is expected that this will be a closely contested game, as both clubs play good ball.

The benefit from camping out is that home is enjoyed more fully after returning from camp.

HOME COMPOSITION.

We sometimes speak of home-made bread and home-made pastry goods, and it may likewise be in place to speak of the Glendale News now being a paper entirely of home composition. Every line of reading matter that appears this week on the eight pages of this sheet is set on the Mergenthaler Linotype machine in the News office, by our own operator. A business man remarked to the writer a few days ago, that he favors encouraging home industries, that meant buying home-made bread, home-made pies and cakes and patronizing home composition printing plant.

REALTY NOTES.

The following sales were reported this week by the Walker-Middleworth Realty company, giving evidence that at least one firm is up and doing:

Lot on North Maryland avenue to C. W. Spicaman of Los Angeles, who will at once begin the erection of a home to cost something like $2500. The sale price of this lot is reported as being $850.

Lot on Cherry street to Rugenia R. Lamy, who will build in the very near future.

Two lots on Isabelle street near Doran street, one of these being to J. P. Grider, the other to Mrs. Alice Drennan.

Lot on Orange Grove avenue to F. A. Aldrich, former proprietor of the Glendale garage. At the present time Mr. Aldrich is putting up a home on the new purchase that will cost about $2500 to construct. This home was purchased from William Penn, who moved some time ago to England to reside.

House and lot on the corner of Burnett street and Central avenue to a local investor, the price being stated at $2350.

Exchange of property at 1112 and 1114 East Fourth street, Long Beach, for an eight-room, two-story house and lot at 512 West Fifth street. This transaction represented $11,000.

This firm has sold a home which it erected recently to P. E. Maxwell on Kenwood street, between First and Doran streets. The price paid was $3500. Mr. Maxwell is an employee of the Pioneer Paper company, of Los Angeles, and intends making his permanent home with us.

ENJOYING VACATION.

The boys and girls of the public schools of Glendale are enjoying a week's vacation at present. Perhaps the teachers are getting as much enjoyment from the week's rest as the pupils. Vacations are often a stimulus for better work. It is wise at times to have a beginning and an end to what otherwise would be continuous work. Work is not drudgery when executed in a cheerful manner and a brief rest may aid in throwing off any symptoms of drudgery.

FRUIT GROWERS' DEPARTMENT

BREAKING UP LARGE ESTATES.

One more step in the breaking up of the large landed estates of Southern California, and the parceling of land, held for years in huge ranches, among the citrus growers of the country has just been taken, through the sale of the La Puente Rancho to the house of Torrance Marshall & company, the strongest incorporated bond house in the West.

Edwin Hart and Volney Craig have completed a deal by which a corporation known as the Whittier Extension company, under Torrance influence, takes over the 1700 acres of the old "Lucky" Baldwin rancho at a price in excess of $500,000.

The new owners will spend $125,- 000 in developing the property and in preparing it for planting to orange, lemon and other citrus orchards.

Of this sum $90,000 will be spent in the construction of a water system and in the building of reservoirs,
the sinking of wells, and in the construction along the five hundred foot level of the Whittier hills of a great drainage canal for the purpose of carrying for the storm water from the hills, and to prevent washouts in the valley below.

In addition to this, roads and other improvements will be put in at once, and already H. H. Sinclair, who is in charge of the development of the property, has more than 60 men in the engineering force on the property.

Not only is this deal of importance
because of the breaking up of another of the old ranches, but coming as it does after the recent freeze, it is prima facie evidence that the citrus industry has not suffered materially in the eyes of heavy investors.

In fact there have been more orange and lemon groves planted this spring than ever before, and only the scarcity of young trees now hampers development throughout Southern California.

PRUNING THE RASPBERRY.

The raspberry is too often left alone or prepared by rule of thumb methods only. When this is the case it is useless to look for good crops.
The canes that have borne fruit
should always be got rid of as soon as they have performed this duty.

Choose fine weather for this operation and leave three or four young shoots to each stool. Mature and let them grow away until spring.
Then if they appear very crowded let
the side shoots be shortened back before midsummer, down to about six or eight leaves from the ground.
By doing this the light and air will have free play and without their beneficial agency no good results can be had.

The canes of the bushes must never be allowed to press one another. When this is the case good fruit is impossible. Over-crowding is fatal to either fruit or flowers.

The great object in pruning is to open the heart of the tree or bush so as to admit the sunshine and air. The thicket of young suckers should also be removed. To form a "raspberry hedge," plant the canes a foot apart and train on wires. Cut those that have borne and train the young canes
so that they are six inches apart.

In regard to varieties, the very large kinds I consider very undesirable, except, as the dealer said when asked "What the utterly useless razors he had to offer were made for?"
"To sell!" These mammoth varieties look well, but they lack the juice
and the peculiarly delicious acid flavor of the raspberry. W. R. Gilbert in Cal. Farmer.

WORK AND JOY.

The workman who lives in his work and not by it is putting vitality and joy into every hour. He is not grinding at distasteful tasks to the bare limit of the schedule hours and then hurrying elsewhere to live. He is consciously living, exerting his powers, enjoying their exercise, in his daily task. This then becomes his existence rather than the marginal hours spent outside the workshop.
Until every toiler can be so envi-
roned and so conditioned at his task
as to feel this joy in his society will not have solved the human problem.
Carlyle's man who sings at his work
is exactly this man whose heart rejoiceth to run the daily race.—Mary Stanhope.

SOME INDIAN PRECEPTS.

Ernest Thompson Seton's "The Book of Woodcraft and Indian Lore" contains the teachings of the Indian Chief Wabasha I., from which we quote the following:
"In the day of his strength no man is fat. Fat is good in a beast, but in a man it is disease and comes only of an evil life.

"No man will eat three times each sun if he would keep his body strong and his mind unclouded.
"Bathe every sun in cold water
and one sun in seven enter the sweat lodge.

"When your time comes to die sing
your death song and die pleasantly,
not like the white men, whose hearts
are ever filled with the fear of death,
so when their time comes they weep
and wail and pray for a little more time so they may live their lives over again in a different manner."

CHURCH ADOPTS ADVERTISING.

It pays to advertise. Live business men have found this out long ago and recently church workers have awakened to the fact.

The Philadelphia Evening Telegraph gives the following instance of quick results from church advertising. It says:

"An example of how needed funds
were quickly obtained by the publicity methods adopted was cited yesterday in which case a school was ordered closed by the India government because of unsanitary conditions. In this school there were 1,000 children when the accommodations were only sufficient for 250.
One of the missionaries came to the country to raise the necessary funds,
but became discouraged at the meagre results that attended his efforts.

He appealed to a Philadelphia business man who told him to begin on a new plan. He was given the name of a prominent business man in the West, where he was operating at the time, who in four minutes
time gave him the necessary $500 for a series of advertisements in the church paper. The amount needed was $12,000.

Contracts were entered into for a run of five months' display advertising of the space of one page. The result was a flood of contributions amounting to $18,000 when orders were issued to stop receiving contributions. The India government has since appropriated $9,000, making a total of $27,000 obtained in a short time as a result of an expenditure of $500 in printers' ink, in large display type and pictures.

To study the Egyptian mission field Geo. C. Shann of Philadelphia recently sailed from New York on the steamship Mauretania. He goes abroad in the interest of the mission board of the United Presbyterian church and with a view of broadening the scope of a publicity campaign inaugurated by a group of Philadelphia business men, of which he is one. He was accompanied by Rev. Dr. Thomas C. Pollock, pastor of the Oak Park Presbyterian Church of America and will be gone about eight weeks.

Mr. Shann is a thorough believer in advertising and especially in newspaper advertising, judiciously used in the furthering of the church work in its every form. As a result of the methods adopted by the group of Philadelphia business men interested, the United Presbyterian Church is today the largest contributor to the foreign missionary work per capita.

WANT NO BOOZE.

Pleasing indeed is the word that comes from Washington to the effect that President and Mrs. Wilson and Vice-President and Mrs. Marshall will not have wine on their tables when they entertain or at any other time. Secretary of State and Mrs. Bryan have also let it be known that there will be no uncorking of bottles about their home in Washington. Heretofore it was considered almost indecent to entertain high society without offering wine, but thanks to the new order of things that day is past. People who feel that their entertainment has not been complete until they have had their sufficiency of wine will either come to the new standard or change their place of residence. All praise to our national leaders for their example.
Let the lesser lights follow in doing likewise.

A LEGAL OPINION.

"A cat sits on my back fence every night and he yowls and yowls and yowls. Now I don't want to have any trouble with Neighbor Jones,
but this thing has gone far enough,
and I want you to tell me what to do."

The young lawyer looked as solemn as an old sick owl, and said not a word.

"I have a right to shoot the cat,
haven't I?"
"I would hardly say that," replied
young Coke Blackstone. "The cat does not belong to you, as I understand it."

"No, but the fence does."
"Then," concluded the light of law, "I think it safe to say you have a perfect right to tear down the fence."—New York Press.

NOT THE SAME.

A professor from Iowa went to England last summer, and was introduced to a professor from one of the English universities, according to Lippincott's magazine. He welcomed the American, and said, "I met one of your colleagues last summer. We had another professor from Ohio
here to visit us."

"But I am from Iowa."
"Iowa, indeed!" How very interesting. I am sure the other gentleman called it Ohio!"

CAN'T BE DONE.

"Say, Tommy," said Harry, in a whisper, "tell me, honest, now. Did you ever really and truly have enough pie?"

And Tommy was forced to confess that in his experience pie was a thing nobody could ever get enough of.—Harpers Young People.

Isaac and Rebekah. Gen. xxiv.
Golden Text—In all thy ways acknowledge him and he will direct thy paths. Prov. 3:6.

(1) Verse 1—Should a good old man be as bright in his mind and as glad in his heart as when he was younger? Why?

(2) Verses 2-9—What would you say is the value of a faithful workman or foreman or an absolutely trustworthy confidential secretary to an employer?

(3) What, if any, value is an oath over a straight promise to bind the conscience of an intelligent man?

(4) Isaac was thirty-six years old when Abraham, his father, sent his servant to seek him a wife. Would you say that every man should marry, and if so, at what age?

(5) If a son is not interested to get a wife, ought his parents put pressure on him to do so?

(6) What importance should be attached to nationality, family and religion, as compared with personality in choosing a wife or accepting a husband?

(7) How much does God do in the selection of the wife of a truly good man?

(8) Would you say or not, and why, that all true marriages are made in heaven?

(9) Verses 10-20—If an industrious man in an honorable calling constantly seeks help from God, may he with safety quiet his heart from all anxiety and be assured of success? Why?

(10) How much consideration ought a woman, when her hand is sought in marriage, give to her suitor's worldly possessions?

(11) If two salesmen, both Christian men of equal ability, start out to sell goods, and one prays for success with every prospect, while the other does not, what would be the difference, if any, in their degree of success?

(12) Whether a man is rich or poor, which woman would make him
the better wife, other things being equal, one who knows how to work,
or one who has been raised in luxury
without work? Why?

(13) Verses 21-28—What is the difference in the restful assurance produced by faith and that which comes from faith being actually realized through fact?

(14) Verses 29-42—Who was Laban and what part does he play in Bible history?

(15) Why is it that presents form such an important part in courtship and marriage?

(16) Why is it unwise in these days for cousins to marry?

(17) Verses 43-49—Of two young women, the one frank, cheerful, communicative and obliging; the other timid, reserved and self-contained, which is the more likely to get a good husband? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(18) Verses 50-53—Why should you say or not that all the good things which we get come from the Lord?

(19) What effect does a devout recognition of God's benefits have upon our generosity?

(20) Verses 54-61—What can you say in favor of the man who is in a hurry to get home as soon as he has finished his business?

(21) Verses 62-67—When you know a man meditates in the fields
at night how would you estimate his general character?

(22) What great historic significance is there in the marriage of Isaac and Rebekah?

A NEWSPAPER LAW.

Any person who receives a paper
from the postoffice, is by law, a subscriber, whether the paper was ordered or not, as he may refuse to accept the paper from the office after all arrears are paid up.

Notice to the publishers that papers are no longer wanted does not release the subscriber from the subscription price unless all arrears to subscribe with the current year's subscription are paid in full.

Failure to receive a few copies is no defense or excuse to avoid payment, as publishers' responsibility ceases when the papers are delivered at the postoffice in the town in which the paper is published.

Parties not giving due notice to discontinue at expiration of paid term are supposed to wish their subscription continued and must pay for the same and then order it stopped.

Parties moving without notifying publishers of the change in address are responsible for all papers sent to former address.

By implied contract rule, any person receiving an article even though no direct order was given, is just as liable for payment of articles received. This not only applies to newspapers, but other goods or articles as well. This is the law.

BUT NO CARTE BLANCHE.

Little that is humorous attends the purchase of coal; yet one Cleveland man found at a coal yard in that city an individual who managed to infuse a degree of facetiousness into such a transaction.

"How much is stove coal?" asked
the prospective purchaser.

"That depends," said the salesman. "A la carte, it's seven and a half. Cul-de-sac, it will cost you 50 cents extra."—Lippincott's.

STABILITY.

Though, "Hitch your wagon to a

Is good advice, I've found
That I can do more pulling, far,
With both feet on the ground.

GET RICH QUICK.

"Babbage tells me he is planning on being a rich man in the course of a few years."

"Yes, he is already laying the wires
to become a waiter in a San Francisco restaurant during the holding of the Panama exposition.

The number of Americans who are planning to go abroad this summer and in the summer of 1914, so as to be ready to stay on this side and attend the Panama Exposition during 1915, would seem to make it advisable for some of the transatlantic steamship companies plan to use their biggest craft as San Francisco bay ferry boats while the big show is on.

"Charley is so poetical! When I accepted him he said he felt like an immigrant entering a new world."
"Well, was he an immigrant?"

treatment of others just put yourself in the other fellow's place.

Tropico

The Epworth League of the Tropico Methodist church held a social in the church parlors last Friday evening. The affair was well attended and proved to be one of the enjoyable events for which this society is noted.

Rev. and Mrs. M. M. Eshelman, who have been living at this place for the past few months, will start early in the week for a tour of California. The trip will be made in the interest of a Bible institute of Los Angeles, of which Mr. Eshelman is a member of the faculty. At the various points visited the travelers will organize Bible schools, and will revivify the work already begun.

The Boy Scouts of Tropico took part in the elaborate moving picture campaign which was held at Hollywood on Saturday and Monday. The boys carried with them their hatchets, and while the camera was rolling off the feet of film they did their little part like real men. The Tropico section of the scouts was in charge of Robert Taylor, one of the officers in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Marple of 322 Boynton street, entertained a number of young folks from Los Angeles last Saturday evening, complimentary to the birthday anniversary of Miss Hilda Rigg of the Angel City. The young folks assembled about 7 o'clock and they were immediately led to the ravine at the rear of the house, which was prettily decorated with Japanese lanterns. The "wild" surroundings appealed to the guests, who seemingly forgot all memories of the life among the skyscrapers. Soon the fire in the stove was lighted, and a short time later the "wee-wee" began frizzling. At this point all hands went after those "eatins" with a will. There were weenies, Spanish beans, potato chips, doughnuts, rolls, pickles and coffee. With this "spread" before them the "kiddies" gathered around the campfire which was started, and for an hour the young folks sang to the accompaniment of the guitar. Later the party adjourned to the house, where the piano was ushered into use.

Mr. Harold Latter of Boynton street, visited by his mother, entertained at dinner Sunday evening, several of his girl friends from the Baptist church of Glendale. The manner in which Master Latter so efficiently officiated at the elaborate four-course repast bespeaks for himself an unusually successful future as a knight of the apron.

Mrs. Metcalf and Mrs. Fred Latter of Boynton street enjoyed a visit early this week with friends in Los Angeles.

Frank B. McKenney, one of Tropico's hardware merchants, is enjoying a short visit with his daughter of Oakland. He is being accompanied on the trip by Jared Wenger, who is in the hardware business in Los Angeles, having been in that business formerly in Glendale. These gentlemen are delegates from the Southern California Hardware Dealers' association, which convenes soon in Oakland.

It will be seen that on the directorate of the Menarch Investment company, the advertisement of which company is being run in this paper, appear the names of well known men of this place. The directorate is as follows: A. J. Neimeyer, president of the Tropico Lumber company; C. E. Price, Meyer Seigel, Merritt G. Coughan, C. C. Dennis, Charles Jacobs, C. B. Cunningham, Thomas S. Bell, G. E. Welles and James T. Cawthorne.

It is the intention of the members of the Tropico Thursday Afternoon club to paint this town and part of Los Angeles red this (Friday) evening. The club members, accompanied by the members of their families, will hike from this place to Bee Rock, Griffith Park, where one of those good, old-time suppers will be served in the moonlight and beneath the mammoth live oak trees. During the evening a program of games and sports will be held, this being in charge of Miss May Cornwell, a teacher at the Tropico grammar school. The trip to the park will be made by auto, the large auto truck leaving the business section of town, where it will pick up the business men at 6 o'clock sharp. This promises to be one of those good times for which this society is noted.

E. M. McClure, who for several years was editor of the Glendale News and the Valley Independent, and is now editor of the Stanton Optimist, passed a few days in this valley recently.

Tropico isn't "busted." According to the treasurer's report at the close of business at the last day of February this city has $4,812.80 in the city treasury.

The members of the Tropico Civic club and others are trying to persuade the Pacific Electric company that it is to the best interest of all concerned that the point at Gardena avenue and Brand boulevard should be put in a passable condition. It remains to be seen who is right.

The Knights of Pythias lodge held one of their enjoyable dancing parties in their hall on San Fernando road, Thursday evening. As usual the attendance was quite large. Refreshments were served during the evening.

METHODISTS OF TROPICO WILL BUILD.

A meeting of the building committee of the Tropico Methodist church was held in the parlors of the church Monday evening, at which time it was definitely decided that that denomination will erect, in the very near future, a modern church, which will in every way meet the demands of this rapidly growing community. The intention is to build the edifice on the lot at the corner of Palmer avenue and Central avenue, which lies at the side of the present house of worship. At this meeting it was also decided to change the name of the church, which has, up to this time been known as the First Methodist church of Tropico. Hereafter the church will be known as the Riverdale church of Tropico. According to present reports the erection of the edifice will begin in a few weeks.

TROPICO IS BUILDING.

It's up to Glendale, Los Angeles and a few of the other smaller sections in this part of the woods to be up and doing. If they do not little Babe Tropico, hardly out of her incorporation dresses, will show them just where to get off. The building permits of Tropico during the month of February totaled $39,155. Talk in a hurry and it doesn't seem nearly so large as it is.

The largest number of permits were taken out by the Pacific Home Builders, their list totaling $20,000. A pleasing feature was that during the month a number of permits were taken out for business structures, and these blocks are now in the course of construction.

The following list of permits were taken out:

C. M. Retts, residence, La Brea Court, $1000; A. O. Deval, residence, West Cypress street, $500; same, residence, same street, $500; same, residence, same street, $500; Martin & Burke, brick business block, 208 San Fernando road, $6,000; Emil Moniet, pool room, 418 West Tropico avenue, $2,000; Dr. Mabray, addition, 111 East Cypress, $500; C. H. Henry, brick block, Park avenue and Brand boulevard, $7,000; Home Builders, residences, total, $20,000; H. A. Jennings, remodeling, $500; W. G. Black, remodeling, Brand boulevard, $500. In addition to these, permits which brought the grand total up to $39,155.

WEST GLENDAL.

Mr. A. J. Klein left last week for Taft, where he takes a position as purchasing agent for the Union Oil Well Supply House of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Kelly, Sr., spent a few days at Balboa last week. Mrs. Kelly will remain for a short time, as the change has been very beneficial to her health.

Mrs. Fencetermaker has purchased a very pretty bungalow on Central avenue, near Second street, now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Stanford, and will take possession of the same about the first of April.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Schremp spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Barron of Downey, former residents of Glendale. Miss Esther Schremp is spending the week with her aunt, Mrs. E. B. Jones of San Bernardino.

Miss Leona Cleland entertained the members of her Sunday-school class of the Presbyterian church at her home on Ivy street Saturday afternoon. Various games were played and a general good time enjoyed. The young folks did ample justice to the lunch served by Miss Cleland.

Little Cleo Redd gave a party at her home, 1520 Oak street, Tuesday in honor of her friend, Mary Fletcher of Los Angeles, who is visiting her for a short time. The hours were pleasantly spent, and cake and lemonade served to eight young people.

At the musicale given by the Parent Teachers' Association of the Remington Street School, at the home of Mrs. Mary Gridley on Thursday afternoon, March 13, some especially good talent was heard. Mrs. Kelly of Casa Verdugo gave some very fine piano selections, and Mrs. Thomas charmed her listeners with vocal solos. Miss Barbara Mitchell recited, while Carlton Padelford and Cecil Crandall rendered violin and piano numbers, which were greatly enjoyed. The speakers of the afternoon—Mrs. Huey and Mrs. Mary Gridley—took as their subject, "The Charter." Mrs. Gridley also read a very beautiful paper on "Using Our God-given Gifts for Others." Ten dollars was realized from the musicale, which went toward meeting certain expenses pledged by the mothers. The guest of the afternoon, Mrs. Hamilton, president of the Southern California Congress of Mothers, gave a very interesting talk.

Be it cold and stormy or otherwise the stork isn't hindered in his rounds in the least. Last week he was taking a "constitutional" around our neighborhood, and left a fine baby boy at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lane, on West Fifth street. He has made several calls previous to this one; but he was given a hearty welcome, just the same.

Mr. England and family of Burckett street, enjoyed a trip to Alpine Tavern on Sunday, and report a delightful time.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wilke, together with Miss Peters, spent Sunday at the beach.

DANCING AND CARD PARTY.

On Saturday evening Miss Kathleen Dodge gave a party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Dodge, 1435 West Broadway, in honor of her uncle, Roy Page. The hours were pleasantly spent in cards and dancing. Music also played an important part in the evening's entertainment. Miss Bessie Thomas was awarded first prize, while the second prize fell to the lot of Mansfield Tweedy.

During the evening dainty refreshments were served. Miss Dodge was a most charming hostess, and her guests will long remember the pleasant occasion.

EXPERT.

"How is your husband getting on in learning the game of golf?"
"Oh, splendidly, I guess! I hear the other men confessing that they make the course in 60 or 70, while my husband most always runs his score away up above 80."

INSISTS UPON IT.

Mistress—You have excellent letters of recommendation.
Beligerent-looking New Cook—Yes, mum. Not a foot will I step out of anybody's house until I get one.—Puck.

"What," asked the hunter, who had mistakenly shot a guide, bending down eagerly, "is your name?"
"Smith," gasped the guide, with his last breath. The hunter's face fell. "And I came up here," he exclaimed, ruefully, in pursuit of rare game! —Puck.
